Replica Bird's Eye View Antique Maps of the Upper Peninsula

Offered by the Houghton County Historical Society
53102 Highway M-26, Lake Linden, MI
906-296-4121

These handsome views of American cities are faithful reproductions of the originals published in the 1800s. Colored views closely match the hues of the period. All closely follow the original colors of the time.

$40.00
These examples show the excellent level of the details within these antique map reproductions.

You can clearly see that the lithographers were expert at depicting the daily life of the times portrayed, complete with street scenes, trees, churches, horses, maritime activity and centers of industry common to this area more than a century ago. These high quality reproductions are suitable for framing.
Birds eye view from high above the thriving Portage waterway filled with steam and sailing ships, showing both Houghton and Hancock which extends up the hill. Beck & Pauli, Lithographers. Published by J. J. Stoner of Madison, Wisconsin.

The entire peninsula is portrayed, with geographic features, towns, industrial centers and other features of interest. Immense detail of each building makes this a most interesting view.

With the rolling hills in the background, the map identifies the street names and points of interest of these important towns of more than a century ago. Streets and twenty-two points of interest are identified by the numbered Legend in this Beck & Pauli lithograph.
Hancock 1873
19” X 23”

This map by A. J. Cleveland shows early Hancock and its waterfront shipping. The Legend identifies street names and points of interest. Toned views published with a single sky and shadow tone added to an uncolored print which closely follows the original colors of the time.

$40.00

Hancock 1881 - 16” X 25” - $40.00

This panoramic view of Hancock, drawn by Beck & Pauli, identifies street names, points of interest and the thriving waterfront activity. The printed detail is outstanding.

Ripley 1873
21” X 26”

This partial map is a bird’s eye view overlooking the villages of Ripley, Quincy, Pewabic and Franklin, showing the industrial and waterfront activity. Legend identifies points of interest. This is also drawn by A. J. Cleveland and published by the American Oleograph Co.

$40.00
Houghton 1872
19" X 23"
This panoramic view of the city of Houghton, Michigan was originally drawn by C. H. Vogt & was produced by the American Oleograph Co. in 1872. The map identifies the street names and points of interest more than a century ago. The printed detail is outstanding.

$40.00

Lake Linden, Torch Lake 1881
17.5" X 14.5"
This panoramic view of the Village of Lake Linden was originally done by Beck & Pauli in 1881. Identifies various buildings of the Calumet & Hecla Smelting Works along with street names, points of interest, and shipping on Torch Lake more than a century ago. Excellent printed detail.

$40.00

Torch Lake 1873
23.5" X 19"
A. J. Cleveland’s view from the southeast with Torch Lake in the foreground. It shows maritime pursuits against a background of the small village whose buildings occupy the gentle slope extending toward Red Jacket. Interesting comparison to the previous map done eight years later.
